Plenty of Free Parking in Lemon Grove for Christmas Shoppers

Vol. 4; No. 17 — LEMON GROVE, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 20, 1951 — 5c PER COPY

Last Christmas Program Takes Place at Tree Friday Eve

Decorations Awards to be Given Friday

Carol Winkle Smith will be awarded the gold cup for the best decorated window on Friday evening, at the Christmas tree.

Owner of Carol Ann Dress Shop, 3321 Imperial, Mrs. Smith has the entire window as the setting for a Nativity scene.

The Petite Shop and Wigtons Dress Shop have been judged second and third and will receive plaques.

In the Home Decoration contest, Joseph K. Danzkay, 3253 Acacia, was easily adjudged winner of first place. A life size Santa is going head first down a chimney in the middle of the roof. Life size reindeer are on either side and Santa's pack of toys leaning against the chimney. Merry Christmas made out of large silver letters is placed on the front slope of the roof. Complementing the scene are lights in the front windows, a lovely tree on the inside in front of the window, beautiful poinsettias in bloom and a lighted outdoor live tree.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Thompson, 7774 Mt. Vernon were judged second and Miss Mona H. Barton, 3269 Buena Vista, third with a beautifully painted apartment window.

In the windows in the business district, special mention should go to the window at the George Casteel building, Mode O'Day, Walter's Jewelry, Lemon Grove Home and Auto Supply, and many others.

The Lemon Grove Girls' Sextette will sing carols at 7:30 p. m. and Chief W. E. Sperling will be master of ceremonies.

Committee Makes Plans for Dinner

The Chamber of Commerce committee recently appointed by President Baxter to arrange for a public dinner to be held in January met Wednesday noon at Hilltop Chateau. Luncheon guests of Mrs. Beatrice Garber were Harry Griffen, Dr. Peter Shea and Mrs. Jeannette Vaughn.

The committee discussed tentative plans and agreed to meet again next Wednesday at which time details will be completed and the time and place of the dinner will be announced.

Paul Speckmann in Korean Action

Paul L. Speckmann, aviation electronics technician, third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Speckmann, 8444 Imperial Ave., is an air crewman flying with Night Attack Team Six, Carrier Air Group 102.

This unit is based aboard the aircraft carrier USS Bon Homme Richard which was engaged in combat flight operations against the Communists in North Korea. He is an airborne radar operator.

IT'S A BOY

A son, James Dixon Clavell, Jr., was born to Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Clavell, Sr., 3408 Sweetwater, on Tuesday, December 11, at Quintard Hospital. Mother and babe returned home Friday. Baby James has two sisters, Judy 5 and Jane 3. Judy was 5 on Tuesday.

SCRAP DRIVE CONTINUES

The Lions Club scrap pile at the corner of Broadway and New Jersey is beginning to grow. The club is collecting scrap metal to aid the nation in its defense work and would appreciate all contributions to the pile.

Next Week's Paper to be Printed Monday

If you have news, please call H 6-1168 immediately.

The editors will leave at noon on Monday to spend Christmas with their family at the home of their daughter, Mrs. C. C. Warren of San Fernando.

This is the only chance in the year to have part of a week's vacation so the office will be closed until Monday, December 30.

Your co-operation will be deeply appreciated.

All copy for news or ads, must be in the office by noon on Saturday, December 22. If possible get your copy in before Saturday.

The issue of the Review for December 27 will be printed early Monday morning, December 24.

Vista La Mesans Present Cantata

The Sanctuary Choir of Vista La Mesa Christian Church will present Bernard Hamblen's cantata, "The Heavenly Child" on Sunday, at 7:30 p. m., under the direction of Richard Hendee. Soloists will be Carol Hasek and Lura Kenworthy, soprano; Kathleen Jones, alto; Ray Wellington, tenor; Donald Jones, baritone.

The Candlelight service on Christmas Eve will begin at 7:00 p. m. with the processional of the Junior Choir, which will sing throughout the worship period. Representatives of the church school departments will have small parts during the service. The traditional "white gifts" (canned fruit juice, dried fruit, etc) and offerings for the California Christian Home will be dedicated at that time. People of the community are invited to share this hour of poignant beauty.

Warns Agains Picking Mushrooms

San Diegans who are harvesting the bumper crop of wild "mushrooms," which have been popping up after the recent rains, are gambling with their lives against high odds, Dr. A. R. Leonard, Assistant Director of the San Diego Department of Public Health, said today.

"According to experts," Dr. Leonard warned, "there is no reliable test to tell the difference between poisonous and edible mushrooms. The person who picks and eats wild mushrooms is playing with dynamite. Just one poisonous mushroom or toadstool is enough to cause serious illness and death 48 hours after eating.

Christmas Day at Lutheran Church

The Lemon Grove Lutheran Church congregation will celebrate Christmas at 10:00 a. m. Service. The choir will sing well known Christmas Hymns and Pastor Elster will bring the Christmas Message around the Christmas theme of "The Glory of Christmas." The Congregation wishes to extend a warm invitation to worship with it at the Corner of Skyline and Alton Dr. in Lemon Grove.

The annual Sunday School Christmas program at 7:30 p. m. on Sunday promisises to be an interesting one, built around colored slides entitled "The Joys of Christmas."

Benson Talks to Civic Leaders

Andy Benson, Grossmont hospital association secretary, met Wednesday in Friendship Hall with Lemon Grove civic leaders to discuss methods for rousing the vote in the coming hospital district election.

Participating were representatives of the Lemon Grove Kiwanis and Lions clubs, Business Women's League, Lemon Grove and Monterey Heights PTA, and the pastor of the Community Congregational Church.

MASONIC CLUB MEETING

J. P. Haynes, 7842 Alton, will open his home on Friday evening for the Lemon Grove Masonic Club meeting at 7:30 p. m. All Master Masons are invited. Each one attending is asked to bring a pound of brass or copper.

Sperling Has Busy 30-Day Leave

Commander W. G. Sperling, Lemon Grove Post 2082, Veterans of Foreign Wars, is on 30 day leave from his duties as a Chief in the USN.

He expects to visit all members of the Post with whom he is not acquainted and as many others as possible.

He is boosting for the VFW New Years Eve dance at Mission Beach, proceeds of which go to the convention fund for 1952. A. T. Henderson has tickets for the dance.

Commander Sperling is also working for a big attendance at the turkey dinner given by the Post Sunday, January 6, from 2 to 6 p. m.

Chief Sperling has been acting as Master of Ceremonies at the weekly Christmas program given Friday evenings under the Christmas tree on Imperial at Broadway. Last Friday night the Lutheran Choir sang carols and this Friday the Girls' Sextette will sing.

Grossmont Teacher in Globe Play

Miss Ruth Hartel, Grossmont English and speech teacher is playing the role of Mrs. Fielding in the Globe Theatre's Christmas production, Cricket On the Hearth. The show opened December 5 and runs through December 22.

Miss Hartel, in addition to playing the supporting role of Mrs. Fielding, leads the choral singers at the beginning of the show. This is the first work she has done at the Globe.

O. E. S. MEETING

San Miguel Chapter, U. D., O. E. S., will meet Wednesday at 8 p. m. at Friendship Hall, with Mrs. Callie R. Trumbel and Ernest Charbonneau presiding. A New Year's party will follow the short form meeting with Mrs. Marjorie Chaffee and Mrs. Clark chairmen. All local Stars are cordially invited.

TO CLOSE AT 6:00 P. M.

The Petite Shop will close at 6 p. m. on Christmas eve.

New Home and New Linotype for this Newspaper

The Lemon Grove Review is going to have a new home on Imperial Avenue.

George W. Casteel has announced the construction of three 20-foot store buildings on Imperial just north of Broadway. The buildings will have a depth depth of 45 feet.

The Review will occupy the north room next to the alley, and party of the rear of the middle room.

Mrs. Helen Gauldin of the Mode O'Day will occupy the south store with a Style Shop which will adjoin her Mode O'Day store at the rear.

Along with the announcement of the new home for the Review we are also pleased to announce the installation of a Model 5 linotype to replace one of the older machines.

The new machine was put into operation last Saturday evening.

The publishers of the Review also plan other improvements in the mechanical department of the newspaper when it moves into its new home around the first of March. Our new address will be 3445 Imperial avenue, which is just one lot west of the rear of the present Review plant.

CUB SCOUT NEWS

Cub Scouts of Den 3, Pack 8, have been busy gathering clothes for the Indians at St. Michaels, Arizona, which the Lions Club of Lemon Grove sent to the reservation. The Cub Scouts have also been busy making Christmas oraments and Saturday decorated the Christmas tree in the yard of the Den Mother, Mrs. Marie Miller, 8034 Imperial avenue. The group has also pasted Christmas cards on penny match boxes for the Navy Hospital, along with all the other dens of Pack 8. The Pack will have a big Christmas party Friday evening at the Woman's Club house. Everyone present is to exchange a 25c gift.

GARDEN SECTION

The Garden Section of the Woman's Club will meet at the club house on Thursday, January 3. All club members are invited to attend.

G. W. Casteel reports .45 inch of rain up to this morning in the latest rainfall for this area.

Church Soon to Occupy New Home

Trinity Presbyterian Church will soon be moving into its new home.

Escrow was completed last week on the purchase of the former Country Club house and four acres of land on the hill overlooking lovely Spring Valley at 3902 Kenwood drive.

This fast growing congregation was formed only three months ago by the Rev. and Mrs. John Chandler, of Glendale. The Chandlers immediately purchased a home at 3232 Par drive in Brookside.

Trinity Church is the first mission in the history of the Presbyterian Church in the United States to own a building before receiving a charter.

Plans for remodeling and redecorating the building have been drawn by an architect and work, under the direction of a foreman, has been started.

Much of the work will be done by voluntary labor and anyone interested in helping either by donation or labor may call Eddie Jensen, H 6-5820, or go to the building for information.

The congregation, which has been meeting in Spring Valley Community Center, will soon outgrow its quarters. Last Sunday there were 190 at the morning worship.

Visitors are welcome, and those who do not have a church home will find Trinity Presbyterian to be a friendly church.

Mrs. Peters Winner in Crosley Contest

Mrs. Albert M. Peters of 3145 Central St., Spring Valley has been declared the winner of the Crosley American Way of Life contest, sponsored locally by Dail's Drive-In Furnishings.

Mrs. Peters has been awarded a merchandise certificate valued at $300, and an additional award was given to the church she selected. This award went to the Spring Valley Friends Community Church.

The contest involved answering a brief true and false quiz on Crosley home appliances, and writing a statement of 50 words or less on "What the American Way of Life Means to Me." Each entrant also was eligible to enter the national contest, in which a first prize of $10,000, plus $10,000 to a church or charity, was awarded.

Mrs. Peters was presented with the merchandise certificate at brief ceremonies December 15.

Open Headquarter for Hospital Drive

Arrangements have been made to headquarter the Grossmont Hospital Association in the El Cajon and La Mesa Chambers of Commerce, Andy Benson, executive secretary for the association, announced today.

Literature on hospital district plans will be placed in these offices in the next few days, Benson said. He added that the association plans to have personnel on hand to answer questions about the proposed district.

"These information centers should be a great aid to any undecided voters," Benson said, "especially with the election date of January 8 so close at hand."

Congregational Church Christmas Program

The public is cordially invited to attend a Candlelight Caroling service being presented by the Organ Appreciation Society of Lemon Grove Congregational Church on Sunday evening at 8:00 o'clock in the church sanctuary.

Girl Tells of Cycle Tour Over Europe

Miss Kathleen Dally, of Hawthorne, who had recently returned from a bicycling trip through Europe, visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Neitmann, 2446 Bonita, from Tuesday until Thursday. Miss Dally was a classmate of Jean Neitmann at Davis Agricultural College where she majored in animal husbandry.

Miss Dally was a member of a party of 11 young people which sailed from Montreal last July 4 under the guidance of the American Youth Hostels Association.

They landed in Cherbourg, France and spent several days in Paris where they found the French women to be very well dressed, with extreme make up and "not as beautiful as many other countries."

Traveling entirely on their bicycles, the group toured Germany, Austria, Italy and Switzerland. Much of the time was spent in Bavaria, Germany, and only once were they behind the iron courtain, in Vienna.

Miss Dally did not find the people enthusiastic for the communist rule.

Hostels in Europe are not hotels. A hostel may be a few or only one large room in a castle, barn, home or refurbished out building. There are facilities for cooking, bathing, laundry, etc., so that the traveler may live as

Overturned Stove Burns Young Lad

Fortunately both Chief and Mrs. W. G. Sperling, 6865 Radio drive, were at home Wednesday morning when a kerosene stove was tipped over in the upstairs apartment of their home occupied by Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Grube and family.

Kerosene spilled over the floor, caught fire and Dick Grube, aged 7, received second degree burns on both legs when the burning kerosene was splashed on him.

Mrs. Sperling extinguished most of the fire with pails of water and Mr. Sperling and his older son took a long hose up into the room which was on fire.

A San Diego fire department which responded to the call gave the burned lad first aid treatment.

HOME ON LEAVE

Corp. John Wick, U. S. A. F., came to visit his mother, Mrs. John Wick, 735 Iona Dr., Encanto, last week on a month's leave. John had trained at Lakeland Air Base, San Antonio, Texas, and Texas Teacher's College, Commerce, Texas. He recently was given the rating of corporal. In January he leaves for Alaska for two years.

CLEM WHITAKER, Jr.

With an anticipatory dusting off of its coffers, the Bureau of Internal Revenue once again has unleached its deluge of income tax returns.

While figuring out the returns over the period of the next few months, the Nation's taxpayers might find it interesting to ponder the remarks of Virginia's highly respected Senator Harry F. Byrd. In a California address, Senator Byrd declared:

"From George Washington's administration to April 1, 1945, including the Roosevelt Administration, the Federal Government took in taxes from the American people two hundred forty-eight billion dollars.

"In six years and two months, from May 1945—when Mr. Truman took office—to June 1951, the Federal Government took from us two hundred fifty-five billion dollars!

In plain words, in less than six and one-half years, including only three months of World War II, Mr. Truman has taken from the people in the form of Federal taxes seven billion dollars more than was paid into the Federal treasury in the previous one hundred fifty-six years of our existence as a nation."

Switching from Federal tax collection to Federal spending, doughty Democrat Byrd declared: "From the Administration of George Washington to the beginning of World War II, Federal expenditured totaled $179 billion.

"From the end of World War II, in six years under Mr. Truman, the Federal expenditures totaled $260 billion, or $81 billion more than in the entire life of our Nation, excepting the three and a half year period of World War II.

"In fiscal 1953," Byrd reported, "the Budget Bureau estimates the Federal expenditures at 85 to 90 billions. If so, Mr. Truman will spend in one year—the year beginning July 1, 1952—more than one-half as much as all previous presidents spent up to World War II.

"Based upon the Budget Bureau estimate of spending for fiscal 1953," Byrd stated, "the deficit will be from 15 to 20 billions in one year as the income from Federal taxation in this year under present tax rates will be sixty-eight billion dollars to seventy billion dollars.

"In addition," Senator Byrd pointed out, "our local and State taxation will be about nineteen billion dollars." (State taxes in California are set at approximately one billion dollars, highest in the Nation.)

After presenting his astounding figures concerning Federal taxation and expenditure, Senator Byrd quoted the second President of the United States, a Democrat, in a manner to provoke serious thought in view of the current tax and influence scandals rocking the Administration: Said President Thomas Jefferson, "I do verily believe that a consolidated government would become the most corrupt government on earth."

FROM THE NEWS CIRCUIT
by JAMES DORAIS

If Los Angeles had 60 inches of rainfall each year, doubtless only a fraction of the millions who call California's largest city home would ever have moved there. Yet that tremendous amount of rain—instead of the actual annual precipitation of 12 to 15 inches—is what Los Angeles would require to provide domestic water for its residents if it couldn't depend on outside sources.

That, of course, is why the Southern California metropolis began bringing water from Owens Valley, some 337 miles away, nearly 40 years ago. That is why some years later it started importing water from the Colorado River, and why today the attempt by Arizona to divert Colorado River water for the proposed Central Arizona Project has been steadfastly fought by united California opposition.

As California grows, the need for water grows ever more urgent. Some of the proposals advanced seem downright fantastic, both in scope and in cost. Engineers have proposed bringing water from such far away sources as the Snake, Columbia and Rogue Rivers in the Northwest.

The U. S. Bureau of Reclamation is reported to be studying plans for developing and transmutting water from the Klamath and Trinity Rivers to Southern California at a cost that would approximate 4 billion dollars.

A Buck Rogers-type scheme has been proposed by a Southern California construction engineer to bring water from Northern California by means of a series of geyser-like power plants a mile apart. Streams of water moving at a speed of 400 miles per hour would be shot from the mouth of one plant to the funnel of the next.

Paradoxically, there is plenty of water for everyone within the State's confines. At present, less than a third of California's supply of 70,794,000 acre-feet of water is used each year. The trouble, of course, it that most of the water—or the population—is located in the wrong places.

Currently much in the news is a proposal advanced by the State Water Resources Board to dam the Feather River above Oroville and impound water for irrigation use in the immediate area, and for diversion for the Santa Clara Valley, the San Joaquin Valley and Southern California.

Total cost of this plan, known as the Feather River Project, would be just under 1 billion, 300 million dollars, according to its advocates. Although it would be co-ordinated with the Central Valley Project, financed by State bonding, rather than a project to be undertaken by the Bureau of Reclamation.

The plan proposes to bring 127,000 acre-feet of water annually to areas in Santa Clara and Alameda Counties, 945,000 acre-feet of water annually to areas in Fresno, Kings and Kern Counties on the west side of the San Joaquin Valley, and 1,773,000 acre-feet of water each year over the Tehachipi to supply water-deficient areas as far south as San Diego.

In addition it is claimed that the Feather River Project would provide a firm water supply for 322,000 acres of land below the proposed dam in Butte, Sutter and Yuba Counties, would effectively reduce flood flows, and would make available a large supply of power generating capacity.

Public Notices

Re the Proposed Annexation to the Lemon Grove Sanitation District.

RESOLUTION OF INTENTION TO ANNEX UNINCORPORATED TERRITORY TO THE LEMON GROVE SANITATION DISTRICT AND NOTICE OF HEARING THEREON

On motion of Supervisor Bird, seconded by Supervisor Robbins, the following resolution is adopted and notice is ordered by the Board of Supervisors of San Diego County:

WHEREAS, The Young-Loftus Construction Company, the owner of certain property in unincorporated territory of the County of San Diego contiguous to the Lemon Grove Sanitation District, has asked this Board (Document No. 140744) to annex said property to the Lemon Grove Sanitation District under the provisions of the County Sanitation District Act; and

WHEREAS, the County Boundary Commission has approved the boundaries of the proposed annexation (Document No. 139-720); and

WHEREAS, investigation of the proposed annexation by the Division of Engineering of the Department of Public Works discloses that said property is contiguous to the Lemon Grove Sanitation District and that it would be desirable and feasible to sewer said property by extension of said District's lines (Document No. 140682); NOW THEREFORE

BE IT RESOLVED AND ORDERED:

(a) That it is the intention of the Board of Supervisors of the County of San Diego to annex to the Lemon Grove Sanitation District under the provisions of the County Sanitation District Act all of that contiguous unincorporated territory of the County of San Diego, none of which is now included in any other county sanitation district or other district or districts formed for similar purposes, bounded and described as follows:

(b) That portion of Lot 103 of Lemon Grove Vista, Map No. 2795, lying Northerly of the Easterly prolongation of the Southerly line of Pearson Street.

(c) That the Lemon Grove Sanitation District following said annexation shall continue to be known by that name;

(d) That the Board of Supervisors hereby sets Tuesday, the 8th day of January, 1952, at the hour of 10:30 o'clock, a. m. in the Chamber of the Board of Supervisors, Room 310, San Diego City and County Administration Building, Civic Center San Diego, California, as the time and place fixed for the hearing of objections to the annexation of said territory to said District, or to the extent thereof.

(e) That the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors is hereby authorized and instructed to publish this resolution of intention and notice of hearing thereon at length in at least two successive issues not more than 30 nor less than 10 days prior to the time of said hearing in the Lemon Grove Review, a newspaper of general circulation in the County of San Diego, in the territory proposed to be annexed, and in the Lemon Grove Sanitation District.

PASSED AND ADOPTED by the Board of Supervisors of the County of San Diego, State of California, this 27th day of November, 1951, by the following vote:

AYES: Supervisors Gibson, Bird, Robbins, Rossi and Howell.
NOES: Supervisors None.

"SMALL BUSINESS"
By C. WILSON HARDER

A grim jest makes the Washington rounds today. It is "A single atom bomb can save the country . . . if it is dropped on Washington".

What is meant is that seemingly this is the only way to eliminate the free-spending bureaucrats who have fastened such a hold on the American tax dollar.

C. W. Harder

Washington veterans can understand, although not condone, the greed behind alleged graft disclosures now making headlines. But sheer lunacy, as exemplified by many bureaucratic actions, passes all understanding. That is why the saying now is: "We are used to a White House clique, a Capitol Hill clique, a military clique, and others, but now there has been added to government a St. Elizabeth clique.

St. Elizabeth's is the large hospital for insane near Washington.

For example, the Marshall Plan publishes many, many publications, all carrying clever little stories, ground out by hundreds of government press agents, hailing Marshall Plan accomplishments.

The Marshall Plan Now an expensively printed slick paper public[illegible] points with pride that Marshall Plan dollars are now being used to rehabilitate the ancient ruins of Greece, just as new taxes bite deep into every family.

So millions of families who found new taxes in November paychecks, ruining their budgets will be made happy to know their money will go to restore ancient ruins in Greece.

Still more amazing is that Marshall Plan officials rush into print to boast about their new way of throwing away dollars.

Congress, when more money was voted, was told that Marshall Plan would be changed to the Mutual Defense Assistance Plan, to aid free Europe arm for defense.

The fact that Congress accepted this statement indicates even Congressmen fail to understand lunacy.

And now with great pride, Marshall Plan officials rush into print to report how greatly they have helped the Austrian zither industry. A zither is a seldom used multi-stringed musical instrument.

They carefully point out that Marshall Plan dollars, given to an Austrian government lending agency, financed the zither industry expansion.

Undoubtedly, more zithers is just what Eisenhower needed.

Divisions of men armed with zithers must be an ideal solution of Ike's problem of how to stop Russian armor.

Such blatant boasting of squandering American taxes, many believe, can only come from unbalanced minds.

And many a vacationing Congressman, finding constituents questioning his sanity for tolerating such things, will return to Washington in an ugly mood.

And even though the Marshall Plan is strongly supported by a few huge corporations profiting from the billions of dollars worth of petroleum, machinery, chemicals and newsprint given to nations like Yugoslavia, the force that has always saved America may strike again.

That force, again mobilizing, is the common sense sanity of the average American.

Sweets for Holidays

Holiday fruit candies and pudding bulletins are available at the Agricultural Extension Service Office, 4005 Rosecrans St., San Diego, says Delphine Wilson, Home Advisor, University of California Agricultural Extension Service. These bulletins are entitled "Home Made Fruit Candies" and "Holiday Puddings."

These recipes made from California fruits are based on experiments with fruit candies conducted by the University of California, Division of Food Technology.

The holiday pudding recipes include steamed puddings, uncooked pudding, and sauces, according to Delphine D. Wilson, Home Advisor, University of California Agricultural Extension Service. The fruit candy recipes include glacied fruits, fruit jelly candy, panoche, chocolate fudge with fruit, divinity with fruit, and fondant with fruit.

Candy With Few Calories

Here is a candy to help the "pleasantly plump" over the Yuletide season. It is a high-protein-low-calorie recipe from Delphine Wilson, Home Advisor for the University of California Agricultural Extension Service. The nourishment, with few added calories, comes from using dried skimmed milk to replace some of the sugar.

Stir together one-third cup fresh milk, one cup sugar, and two tablespoons margarine or butter, if desired. Boil two minutes from the time that the bubbles cover the entire surface. Remove from the heat and cool thoroughly. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla, one cup nuts, and one cup powdered skimmed milk, sifted. Stir until smooth and creamy. Turn onto buttered wax paper, or drop by spoonfuls on a buttered cookie sheet.

For variety in the recipe, add coconut instead of nuts; or, add one-half cup cocoa with the cooked ingredients; or substitute orange juice for milk and use one teaspoon grated orange peel instead of the vanilla; or, use sour cream and brown sugar instead of fresh milk and sugar, leave out the fat and add pecans; or use four tablespoons peanut butter instead of the fat and one-half to one cup of broken peanuts and raisins instead of the vanilla.

Each piece of the basic recipe has about 25 calories, Mrs. Wilson reports.

How to Care For Lawns

"Lawn Planting and Care" is the subject of a newly released publication by the College of Agriculture, University of California, says Farm Advisor E. C. Moore. It is a complete treatment of problems of soil preparation, seeding, varieties, and general care of lawns under California conditions.

A copy of this circular may be obtained free of charge from the county office of Agricultural Extension Service, 4 5 Rosecrans Street, Sand Diego 1 .

Plan For Spring Tomatoes

Seed should be started in the greenhouses during December if tomato plants are to go in the field in February, suggests Bernarr J. Hall, Farm Adviser, University of California Agricultural Extension Service.

Varieties best suited to this county include Pearson, and Stone Selections. Growers are advised to treat their seed with the Mercuric Chloride for possible seed borne diseases, such as Bacterial Canker, Fusarium or Verticillium Wilt, at the rate of one ounce per five gallons of water. Seed should be soaked five minutes and then washed in fresh water for 15 minutes.

It requires eight to 10 weeks to grow sturdy plants in the greenhouse for field transplantings. Growers are advised to obtain the best seed available of the desired varieties as seed is relatively cheap compared to the high cost of growing this early spring crop.

For further information on tomato culture, growers may obtain a bulletin "Tomato Production" from the Farm Advisor's Office, 4005 Rosecrans Street, San Diego 1 , suggests Hall.

Soils over the greater part of California, formed under conditions of low rainfall, have escaped much of the leaching of plant nutrients which soils in more humid regions have suffered, according to a summary prepared for medical and dental groups interested in the relation of soil to human nutrition by Dr H. D. Chapman, chairman of the division of soils and plant nutrition of the University of California Citrus Experiment Station.

Soils in humid regions, he noted, are predominantly acid because rain has partially leached out basic elements like calcium, magnesium and sodium. California soils, on the other hand, are predominantly neutral to alkaline, and well supplied with those elements.

However, because of the alkalinity, some elements, though present in large supply, are relatively unavailable to plants.

"There is no such thing as a plant or food product absolutely devoid of mineral elements," the Riverside soil scientist said. "Any plant has to have a certain amount of all these elements in order to grow at all."

Most California soils are well supplied with calcium, and in irrigated regions the waters used all contain dissolved calcium, Dr. Chapman commented. There are phosphorus-deficient areas, he said, but in most of them lack is made up by ferrtilizers.

There is considerable mild manganese deficiency in fruit trees throughout California. Because of alkalinity, he said, plants would be found with somewhat lower iron or manganes content than plants grown on most acid soils.

Words of Wisdom

Dr. Earl O. G. Schmitt, San Jose—"I have a firm conviction that more nervous women are created over the bridge table than over the wash tub."

Sen. Robt. A. Taft, in L. A. —"Our business system is such that any man can develop an idea and have it tried out without getting the approval of some government clerk."

Diana Lynn, Hollywood actress—"On my first big television show they wanted me to strip down to a 1926 bathing suit—for laughs. I did it—for $3000."

Sen. Harry F. Byrd, in L. A. —"Virtually every plank in the Socialist Party platform of 1932 has since been enacted into Federal law and, in some cases, enlarged upon!"

Voluntary Water Saving Conserved 20,000 Acre Feet

A big Christmas present for all the people of San Diego County will be one that they gave themselves. The gift is about 20,000 acre feet of precious water saved during the past nine months by voluntary conservation efforts. Incidently, the gift also includes $2,000,000 saved by water consumers.

The water saving represents more than one-third of all the water in storage, according to the Save Our Water Committee. Bad as the water supply situation is now, the committee pointed out, it would be infinitely worse without the savings which have been stored against the future.

There are approximately 55,000 acre feet of water stored now by agencies which are members of the San Diego County Water Authority, the committee records showed. After taking into consideration evaporation, reservoir bottom water which would be unusable and a substantial amount of water which must be held in reserve for emergency, the storage barely meets requirements for a one year's reserve even if rigid conservation measures are followed, it was said.

While water rates vary according to varying amounts used by consumers, the average cost is $100 an acre foot, according to the Save Our Water Committee, which cited the figure to explain how consumers who have saved 20,000 acre feet of water also have saved $2,000,000.

The magnitude of the public's Christmas gift to itself is easily recognized, the committee believed, if the 20,000 acre feet is subtracted from present storage figures. The small amount left under such circumstances would be cause for the greatest alarm.

Personal Briefs

Chief John F. Galligan, USN, 8236 Vernier Dr., left last Tuesday for San Francisco, from where he will leave for Guam.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Belluscio of New York City came Saturday to spend six months in the home of their neice, Mrs. Ralph Rella, 3690 Grove. They may decide to locate here.

Agostino Laurenco, 2337 Cypress Ave., flew from San Diego to Oakland over the week-end to visit friends, one of whom, Joaquin Rebello, he hasn't seen in 25 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Steiner of Britt, Iowa, arrived Wednesday to visit in the home of their son, Lewis Steiner, 3552 Harris. Other guests on Christmas Day will be Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Steiner, Rickey and Gary, of San Diego.

Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Merrill and Norma Lou, 1671 Bakersfield, will preside at a family dinner party on Christmas eve followed by gifts from the tree. Included will be Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Merrill, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Merrill, Jack and Janice, of Lake Side, Mr. and Mrs. William Nazuland and Charles of Winter Gardens, Mr. and Mrs. Kemper Kerns and Ross of Bostonia.

Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Close, 7529 Central, will have a family breakfast party on Christmas Day and gifts from the Christmas tree. Included will be Mr. and Mrs. Richard Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Richard McAlexander, Jimmy and Donald, of San Diego, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shaw and Billy, and Duane Close. The group will have Christmas dinner in the Robert Shaw home, 2780 Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Huff, 1515 Dupont, were happily surprised by a group of friends on their fifteenth wedding anniversary last Saturday evening. Games were played and refreshments served by the group. A beautifully decorated cake was a feature of the refreshments. Present were Messers. and Mmes. Stuart Read, Alvin Cardozza, Larry Sozanni, Milton Lear and J. B. Leamons and Mrs. Anne Treloff and B. E. Murphy.

Pfc Daun E. Barber, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Barber, 2336 Bonita, who has been stationed at Shepherd's Air Force Base Wichita Falls, Texas, at a B29 Specialists School, is home for the holidays. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wallingford and June, of San Diego, will also be Christmas dinner guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Selvig, Peter and Lee, 3166 Massachusetts, will receive at a family Christmas dinner on Christmas eve for Mr. and Mrs. Adelard Boucher, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Brandel, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Kelly, Mrs. John Wick and sons. Gifts will be distributed from a tree.

Mr. and Mrs. Lew Schicketanz, and son Dale, 3963 Violet, drove to Pomona Friday and visited Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mallett Saturday morning. Mrs. Schicketanz mother, Mrs. Mary Olson, of Manilla, Iowa, arrived in Pomona by train, and returned to Lemon Grove to spend three months with them.

The tour ended on August 25 in Switzerland, but Miss Dally had not seen as much as she had wanted to so remained on her own going back to Bavaria. Here she met Miss Ruth Otto of Gaylord, Minn., who had also left her party.

They found that most of the large cities had been fairly well rebuilt. Greatest evidence of the disaster of warfare could be seen in Nuremberg, although its main street was rebuilt.

The girls toured England and Scotland, where they found the people very friendly and scenery beautiful. They had plenty of food.

They landed in Quebec in September. Miss Dally spent some time in southern Indiana, and Thanksgiving with her grandparents near Dallas, Texas. Returning to California via bus, she stopped at all cities to see the sights. She stopped in La Mesa on Tuesday and walked from there to the Neitmann home on Bonita, a mere distance of only six miles, and regarded that as no unusual feat.

Lemon Grove School News

Lemon Grove School

District Teachers' Party

Faculty members of the Lemon Grove School District and their guests enjoyed a Christmas party last Friday evening at the Golden Ave. School. About 60 were in attendance. Mrs. Agnes Rodgers, chairman of the social committee, was in charge of games, dancing and refreshments. Mrs. Lauritzen, Golden School principal, presented a gift to Miss Audrey Smith and John Strawn, faculty members, who are to be married this week.

Schools Do Teach Spelling

In order to check a rumor that schools today were not teaching spelling as well as schools 100 years ago, an editor secured examinations in spelling given to ninth grade students in 1846 in Springfield, Mass., and sent copies to teachers in schools from Pennsylvania to Texas, asking that they be given to students in the ninth grade.

Although the word list included such "stumpers" as chirography and evanescent, the pupils in modern schools averaged 44.68 percent, while their predecessors average but 40.60 percent.

Tests given in 1919 also proved that those students made only one-quarter to one-third the errors made by children in the schools of 1845.

In checking alphabet knowledge, tests were given this year in Oakland, to sixth, ninth, and twelfth graders to determine ability in arranging lists of words in alphabetical order. Over one-third of the sixth graders had perfect papers, and at the 9th and 12th grade levels, 85% arranged the words correctly.

The payoff came when members of a local service club agreed to try the same test. Only 26% of those adults turned in perfect papers.

Schools Busy During Vacation

Although classrooms will be closed during the next two weeks to all students enjoying the annual Christmas vacation, many employees of the Lemon Grove School District will be on the job during that time.

The administrative and secretarial staff will continue with important work concerning the many phases of school maintenance, and the custodian staff will also be busy with the many tasks to be completed before the boys and girls, with their teachers, return on January 2.

In Vista La Mesa, the new classrooms will be readied for occupancy at the beginning of the new year. In all schools custodians will clean classrooms, wax floors, and check all playground equipment.

Report on Camp Palomar

A group of 33 children from the 6th, 7th, and 8th grades of the Lemon Grove Intermediate School attended the San Diego City and County School Camp at Mt. Palomar last week. Accompanying the group was Wm. Lemke, sixth grade teacher from here.

The staff at the camp consisted of five counselors, all of whom are teachers from San Diego City schools. This group planned the days' schedules which were full of interesting activities. Most groups hiked to places of interest in the mountain area, while others took part in activities at the camp.

During the hikes, groups were instructed on certain phases of science, such as weather, instruments used in measuring it, various types of trees, bushes, and other plants, identification of these, their uses to man, and especially their conservation.

At camp the boys and girls worked in the craft shop, enjoyed fishing in a nearby lake, or decorated the cabins and buildings for the planned Christmas party. A portion of the time in the mountains was spent outside in games.

One whole day of the week was spent at the world famous Palomar Observatory. Here they toured both the observatory and the museum. Children were instructed in the operation of the famous telescope, its history, and its uses. In the museum they learned more about different heavenly bodies.

During the evenings the children played games, enjoyed camp fire songs, and listened to stories told by the counselors. On Thursday evening, a Christmas party was held for all the youngsters.

While at Palomar Camp, both boys and girls took turns clearing tables, washing dishes, making beds, and sweeping dormitories and the lunch rooms. One important phase of the camping trip was the learning to live with others and the assuming of responsibility. Every student who made the trip returned with a feeling not only of having enjoyed a week's recreation but also of having learned a great deal through the experience.

IT ISN'T TOO LATE!

If you still have last minute shopping to do, here's a suggestion you'll be grateful for. It's a simple solution—so easy to do and so sure to please. It's a solution that comes in two parts. First, give the Cigarette smokers on your list a carton or two of the cigarette that's by far America's favorite — cool, mild, flavorful Camels. The Camel Christmas carton is full of the Christmas spirit—bright and colorful and all ready to give. There's a space on the top reserved for your personal greeting. No wrapping, no fussing with paper or cards or ribbons. The second solution involves your pipe-smoking friends and the fellows who like to roll their own cigarettes. It's the one-pound tin of Prince Albert, America's largest-selling smoking tobacco. "The bite's out and the pleasure's in!" The pound tin of Prince Albert comes in a gay Christmas box, all ready to give—just put your message on the built-in Christmas card. Don't delay. Do it today. Your dealer still has Camel cartons and pound tins of Prince Albert. Pay him a visit! —Adv.

It's Wonderful the Way Chewing-Gum Laxative Acts Chiefly to REMOVE WASTE —NOT GOOD FOOD

● Here's the secret millions of folks have discovered about FEEN-A-MINT, the modern chewing-gum laxative. Yes, here is why FEEN-A-MINT's action is so wonderfully different!

Doctors say that many other laxatives start their "flushing" action too soon . . . right in the stomach where food is being digested. Large doses of such laxatives upset digestion, flush away nourishing food you need for health and energy. You feel weak, worn out.

But gentle FEEN-A-MINT, taken as recommended, works chiefly in the lower bowel where it removes only waste, not good food! You avoid that typical weak, tired, worn-out feeling. Use FEEN-A-MINT and feel your "peppy," energetic self! Get FEEN-A-MINT! No increase in price—still 25c, 50c or only 10c.

Household Hints

Save Trips

Empty upstairs waste baskets into one large paper bag. With one trip to basement or outdoor trash can, you can get rid of all upstairs trash, and you won't have to return baskets to their proper places again. Keep a supply of heavy-duty paper bags handy upstairs.

Keeping Cake

Use pieces of bread to prevent the cut sides of a cake from drying out.

Sharpen Crayons

To sharpen children's crayons without waste, hold each crayon near heat until softened; then taper to a point with the fingers.

Appetizing

Glue bright-colored oil cloth to the inside of your child's lunch pail. It's more appetite-tempting than tin that gets rusted from many scrubbings. To clean, wipe with a damp cloth.

Carry Shopping Bag

Carry a folded shopping bag with you when taking small children to any group gathering. Stow caps, mittens, and scarves in the bag as wraps are removed. When it's time to go home, you won't have a frantic search for a missing item amid a confusion of wraps.

Scissors Holder

Flat curtain rod, cut in a short piece and tacked to the inside of your sewing machine drawer, makes a handy holder for your scissors. They're easy to slide into place and remove, and won't get lost among the other things in the drawer.

WHAT? CHRISTMAS IS HERE AGAIN?

No, it's not here this very day, but Christmas is surely coming on, and it'll be here before you know it! Panic? Not a bit of it! For you, like all of us, probably have many cigarette smokers, pipe smokers, and "roll-your-owners" on your Christmas list . . . And, if you have, your worries are over . . . First of all, there are king-size Cavalier Cigarettes for those who want an extremely mild smoke. And Prince Albert Smoking Tobacco for pipes and "makin's" cigarettes. And both are specially gift-packaged for Christmas. The Cavaliers, for instance, have a space ready for your Christmas message right on the brightly colored carton that serves as a greeting card. And the pound-size can of Prince Albert comes in a gay, cheery red and green Christmas box! So you see, there's nothing to get upset about. Just remember two things that will make your Christmas shopping easier and more fun: Cavaliers and Prince Albert. You can get both at your dealer's today . . . Cavaliers, the extremely mild cigarette . . . and Prince Albert, America's most popular smoking tobacco! —Adv.

Brass Into Gold: The Black Market

Black marketing—the ugly racket that plagued America in World War II—was threatening again to become a menace. There was reason to suspect that racketeering money once again was in it.

So midway in its investigations into 'the shame of the cities," the Senate Crime Committee turned to this phenomenon of national scope.

We singled out a particularly flagrant case, involving illegal sugar operations, the shoddy story of Eatsum Food Products. Eatsum was a candy company owned by a manufacturer David George Lubben, of Woodcliff Lake, N. J.

Lubben went to New York during the war years to go into business for himself as a candy wholesaler and manufacturer. The Eatsum company which he bought had not been in business long enough, under OPA regulations, to have any appreciable sugar quota.

Then he met William Giglio, a smart operator, and Frank Livorsi, an ex-convict. The pair had acquired a jelly factory with a sugar quota of 14,000,000 pounds a year. As Lubben told us, all he could think was that "14,000,000 pounds would make me as big as Hershey."

Soon the operator and the ex-convict were his partners in Eatsum, and then came the inexorable finale: Lubben was out and they were in.

Livorsi, the 47-year-old ex-convict, was an admitted friend of such underworld characters as Frank Costello, Willie Moretti, and others. He had been arrested, according to his own recollection, at least 10 times, including twice on homicide charges. His only conviction, however, was a two-year sentence for narcotics peddling.

Could Livorsi, we asked, think of any legitimate business he ever was in before he went to jail? "I can't think of any legitimate business," he suddenly replied. In 1945, Livorsi teamed up with smooth-talking William Giglio, then 30 years old. They acquired Tavern Fruit Juice, a jelly manufacturing business. With the company came the precious sugar quota.

Lubben made a deal to transfer a 50 per cent interest in his company to Giglio and Livorsi; the sale price was around $40,000, but Lubben claimed his new partners actually paid nothing until they had drawn out enough profits to effect a "paper" liquidation of the purchase price. In exchange for half of his business, Lubben said, his new partners "were to see that I got some sugar." But, he mournfully related, he "never got so much sugar that you could sweeten your coffee with."

Lubben was no angel. He confessed that he set up arrangements for buying corn syrup by making under-the-table black market payments to farmers and selling it on the same basis. Everything was done for cash and, in five months of 1945, more than $400,000 in cash was received from these transactions, Lubben testified.

The money was kept in "a little green cash box" hidden in "a panel in back of the bar in the wall" of Giglio's office. "The last time I knew about it there was $140,000 in there."

But Lubben, after about nine months, lost both his nerve and his taste for the fantastic deal. He had a harder time getting away from Giglio & Co. than Br'er Rabbit had with the Tar Baby. The business at that time, according to Lubben's figures (disputed by Giglio) was worth $940,000.

Lubben claimed he took back the lease on the plant and machinery he originally had in the Bronx and turned everything else over to the Giglio group, with the understanding "that they would pay my income tax for the nine months in which I was a partner." "In fact," said Lubben, "they later on charged me back, about $23 because some raisins I had in the warehouse shrunk a little bit."

Senator Tobey asked Lubben if he had not had "a sense of apprehension and fear that if you did not play ball and do what they said, they might do physical harm to you?"

"I did, yes; I did," Lubben fervently replied. "That was the reason I wanted to get away from them." He had counted, he went on, on receiving half of the money in the cash box. But when he asked Giglio about it, Lubben testified, Giglio coldly told him, "You know we had OPA trouble."

"I said," Lubben continued, "'I don't know anything about it, but certainly you had not $140,000 worth.'

"In that office that day were Frank Livorsi, John Ormonte and a couple of other people. I looked around there, and Giglio said, 'You are not going to get my money.'"

So Lubben, letting discretion be the better part of valor, walked out. The final snapper was that he never got his income tax paid by his ex-partners, either.

William Giglio was evasive. But step by step Counsel Rudolph Halley led him through an absorbing recital of his career.

His Tavern Fruit Juice Co. engaged in a sharp operation. The years before, Giglio explained, manufacturers were being encouraged by OPA to make as much jelly as they could: "In 1944 fats and oils and butter were in short supply and OPA requested of all jelly manufacturers to manufacture more spreads, more bread spreads."

Tavern manufactured jellies from sugar it received under OPA allotment but, again in Giglio's own words, "all of our imitation-flavored jellies were sold to a very limited number of customers, only the top customers in the country." These customers, it developed, were large cookie manufacturers, short on sugar themselves, who were buying Tavern's products as "baker's jelly" and paying, as Halley charged, a "premium price."

At the time he testified, Giglic (his own corporation in bankruptcy and under investigation by the Internal Revenue Bureau) had found a new position as general manager, he said, of a pharmaceutical firm.

All throughout our investigations, the committee discovered evidence of infiltration of legitimate business fields by crimesters and their associates. We saw it in Chicago, where Joe Fusco, once labeled a "public enemy" by the Chicago Crime Commission became one of the city's largest wholesale liquor dealers. We saw it in Miami, where hoodlums took over hotels. The committee found more than 70 separate types of businesses into which countless hoodlums had infiltrated.

This pattern is a familiar and often a vicious one. It begins with the hoodlum finding himself with more money than he knows what to do with, accrued, of course, from his illegal ventures.

A good example is Newark gangster Abner (Longie) Swillman, confessed rum-runner and strong-arm man of the prohibition era, named by former District Attorney William O'Dwyer of Brooklyn as one of the old leaders of "The Combination" which ran "Murder, Inc."

Zwillman wound up the prohibition era with a fortune. Now he is a participant in a tobacco vending machine company, a truck sales and parts agency, a trading company that buys and sells auto equipment and used machinery, another company that deals in scrap iron, and a company that places and operates some 700 washing machines in apartment buildings.

He also has investments held for him in the names of other persons. He declined to give us information about these because "sometimes my name kills a deal."

None of us on the Committee would deny the right of an honestly repentent wrong-doer. But there was too much evidence before us of the unreformed hoodlum gaining control of a legitimate business, then utilizing all his old mob tricks —strong-arm methods, bombs, even murder—to secure advantages over legitimate competitors. All too often such competition either ruins legitimate business men, or drives them into emulating or merging with the gangsters.

The hoodlums also are clever at concealing ownership of their business investments. A legitimate business is a very convenient front for a gambler or criminal. It can be used as a "cover" for the profits of his illegal operations, enabling him to defraud the government of taxes.

Another drawback is the basic unwholesomeness of having gangsters in control of companies that perform vital services or distribute necessary commodities to the public.

LAWRENCE CLEARED

Pittsburgh Mayor not Party to Deal

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—A grand jury cleared Pittsburgh's mayor David H. Lawrence of misdemeanor in office in connection with the city's recent $3,500,000 street lighting scandal.

The misdemeanor had charged that the mayor, a national Democratic committeeman, had failed to make a coal company and a maintenance corporation live up to their contracts with the city.

Four other officials of the city, however, and three top men of a New York maintenance firm were indicted on charges ranging from misdemeanor to bribery and conspiracy.

The men were charged with swindling the city on a street lighting system let to the Broadway Maintenance Corporation.

SHORT STORY

New Life

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

THERE WASN'T any particular reason why young Phil Davis and his wife should dislike Templer. Yet this was the case. For one thing neither of them were used to the habits and customs of small town people. They were city bred, and hence misunderstood the kindly interest of their neighbors. Prying curiosity, they termed it.

3-Minute Fiction

"That Mrs. Bixby was over again this morning," Dot Davis said to her husband one night two months after they had become nicely settled. "She wanted to know where I had my washing done. Said she'd been curious ever since she discovered I didn't do it myself."

"Prying old buzzard," Phil muttered. "It's a blasted shame we have to put up with it. Tom Wheeler, who runs the local newspaper, was telling me today that Templer was no different from any small town. They're all the same, he said. God pity the people who have to live in them," he added bitterly.

"I'm sick of it," Dot wailed. "Sick of seeing and meeting no one but gossiping old hypocrites, sick of the familiarity these people assume, once they find you're here to stay."

"But we're not here to stay," Phil cried with sudden enthusiasm. "You remember I told you how I'd been working on the head office? Trying to persuade them to transfer me to

"I'm sick of it," Dot wailed. "Sick of seeing and meeting no one but old hypocrites."

Suffolk? Well, I think it's going through. We'll not have to put up with this drab, dull existence much longer, honey."

"I hope not," Dot cried fervently. "I can't stand it a great deal longer."

Two weeks later the long-hoped-for day arrived. Phil received notice of his transfer to the Suffolk office. Joyously the two young people packed up their belongings and said goodbye to Templer. They took an apartment in the suburb of Ashfield and set about the task of getting acquainted.

This wasn't particularly difficult. Mrs. Hooper, who was rather a plain looking person and who occupied an apartment on the same floor with the Davises, seemed eager to help the young folks get settled. She came in every day and made suggestions which Dot found helpful.

Phil came home one evening to announce that he had joined a club, and would be out one night a week.

"It's just as well," said Dot agreeably. "Mrs. Hooper has asked me to join the Neighborhood Bridge Union, so I'll be out, too."

THEY learned things from Mrs. Hooper and other inhabitants of the apartment about other people in other apartment houses close by. For example, the Ricks were considered "fast." The Browns weren't all they appeared to be.

Bit by bit Phil and Dot adapted themselves to their new life. They learned with whom to associate, and whom to ignore. Gradually they settled into the usual routine.

A month after they had left Templer and its drab dullness behind, Phil arrived home one evening with a curious expression on his face. Dorothy noticed the change.

"Oh, nothing much," he replied to her question. "Bob Talbert was saying today that Ashfield was like a hundred other suburban towns. Same monotonous routine and dullness. The only break they get is when someone new arrives."

"That's odd," Dot said slowly. "Mrs. Hooper was in today. She wanted to know where I had my washing done. She'd noticed, she said, that I didn't do it myself."

Phil and Dot stared at each other for a moment in alarmed silence. Then suddenly, of one accord, they burst into laughter.

"Dot," he said, "I wonder if it's the place we live in or if it's just us. We wanted to be near a large city, and now that we're here we've found conditions pretty much the same as elsewhere."

Dot nodded soberly. "I guess, Phil, dear, it isn't the place that makes one's life drab and dull, it's the people who live in those places. It's the way you treat them and they treat you. I guess human nature is pretty much the same everywhere. It's up to the individual whether or not he or she is happy."

Phil held his wife close.

Green and Rose Kitchen

An effective modern kitchen is built upon a color scheme which combines two tones of rose with two tones of green. The floor is a rich rose-red. Walls and woodwork are enameled a soft, but glowing rose-pink. The white-painted ceiling matches the smooth-surfaced cabinets and equipment. Work surfaces are cool gray, edged with silver. The tops of the stools at the breakfast bar are a spring green to match the dishes. Curtains are a deeper, but harmonizing green.

Splitting Hairs

Tests conducted on hundreds of heads reveal that the diameter of human hair varies from .001 to .004 of an inch. While hair can be classified as fine, medium or coarse, no head contains all fibers of one kind. The diameters will vary from very fine to coarse on every head, although generally one type predominates.

To Match Stones

An inviting modern living room with its entire fireplace wall of stone has the woodwork, ceiling and remaining walls painted a soft moss green tone which echoes a green cast to be found in some of the stones. Rough textured draperies repeat the sandstone color also seen in the fireplace wall.

Permanent Wave Progress

Permanent waving was first introduced in 1906. Early waves, given with complicated machines, took almost 12 hours. Today, with a home permanent kit, a woman can give herself a permanent at home in as little as two hours.

Hawaiian History

Scientific study of charcoal excavated in a Hawaiian cave now leads ethnologists to believe the Polynesians arrived on the Island of Oahu, home of Honolulu, about 1004 A.D.

The pupil of the human eye

The pupil of the human eye is about two-thirds as large in diameter when adapted to a light environment as it is in the dark. This relationship appears to be constant regardless of a person's age. But the pupils of elderly people are smaller than those of young people. A recent study of subjects from 20 to 60 years of age indicated that pupillary diameter decreases progressively from the third to the seventh decade and then remains constant.

War Cycles

A detailed study of the record of wars from 1480 A.D. forward offers a scientific basis for the belief that maximum war activity recurs in cycles of about 22 years. Important periods of international conflict may thus be partially predictable. If past tendencies continue there is reason to believe that a maximum number of international battles may occur in the late 80s.

Withstands Red Heat

The Nimonic series of alloys are a family of nickel-chromium base alloys for use at high temperatures. The Nimonic alloys resist progressive oxidation and retain a large measure of strength even at red heat. They are used in vital parts of current jet engine models.

Unique Clinic

A Methodist clergyman has established a unique rural life clinic near Forrest City, Ark. People going there can attend a religious service, hear a talk on soil conservation, and have the baby immunized against diphtheria.

Plentiful—but Costly

Sulphur, one of the most plentiful of the earth's elements, is in short supply throughout the world. Many of the larger reserves of sulphur are in high-cost sources which cannot be worked profitably under present economic conditions.

Good Question

"What's that?" asked the old man

"A liquid that will dissolve anything" was the reply.

Zeb looked thoughtful a moment and then replied, "Well, by crackies, that's a durn good idea. But tell me, when you find it, what are you going to keep it in?"

Silent Speech

Seated next to each other, the two strangers remained silent as their train roared on mile after mile. Suddenly one of them, an old codger, turned to his neighbor and shouted, "Blast it! I know I'm getting deaf. You've been talking to me for half an hour and I haven't heard a word you said."

"Relax, mister," answered the other chap. "I've been chewing gum."

As The Old Crow Flies

A tourist in the Ozarks called to the old woman sitting on the porch, "How far is it to the nearest town?"

"Pa figgers it's about 10 miles thar and about 12 back," she answered. "Which is on account of him walking straighter goin' than comin'."

Housework Easy Without Nagging Backache

When kidney function slows down, many folks complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Don't suffer longer with these discomforts if reduced kidney function is getting you down—due to such common causes as stress and strain, over-exertion or exposure to cold. Minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While often otherwise caused, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Sermon topic: "The Real Meaning of Christmas."

A Carol Vesper Service Sunday afternoon at 4:30 will close a full week of Christmas services and activities. This informal 'Carol-sing' will meet a need that is often overlooked in the more formal Christmas services and programs—the enjoyment of just getting together in a happy, informal, way and singing lustily all the old familiar Christmas Carols all love so well. The Vesper hour was chosen so that entire families—no matter how many and how small the children—could come and enjoy singing together.
